WASHINGTON, D. C., August 11, 1 a. m.—For Tennessee and the Ohio Valley and Lake Regions, slightly warmer weather, winds mostly from west to south, followed by stationary or falling barometer.

Neighburs Folied.

Yesterday morning, between 3 and 4 o'clock, as Steve Crawford, the vigilant night watchman in the lower end of the Second ward, was making his rounds, and just as he turned from Eleventh street to Main, he heard a slight crash on the opposite side of the street and further up, as though some one were attempting to effect an entrance to a store. He started to run in that direction, when three unen emerged from the recess in front of Locke's shoe store, and started upstreet, toward Market alley. Steve followed rapidly, and finding that the burglars would reach the alley before he could catch them, fired at them, and kept up a volley of shots at the retreating forms which rapidly disappeared down Market alley toward the river bank, closely followed by Grawford. No clue to their identity was left but the hat of one of the fugitives. Mr. P. Kennely, who had heard the noise made by the thleves and stuck his head out of a window, thinks Crawford hit one of them. The front door of Locke's store was found to have been nearly forced open with a jimmy. The operators were evidently professionals, but they counted without their host when they planned to enter a store on Steve's beat. He has shown on one or two former occasions that it can't be done with safety.

"Stoney" Reitz and representatives of Jim Hopper, of Pittsburgh, met at Sheekey's saloon, on Market street, last night, with the intention of making a race between the two oarsmen named. Dan Cochran, Hooper's representative, offered to row Reitz for $250 a side, and give or take $50 expenses, rowing here or at Pittsburgh, as Reitz preferred. These terms did not meet "Stoney's" ideas. He would row for $300, but preferred to make it $300 a side, and he would not allow Hooper over $55 for expenses to come here. He percuptorily refused to go to Pittsburgh on any terms. Cochran offered to row on the Beach Bottom course, but this proposition was also terms. Cochran offered to row on the Beach Bottom course, but this proposition was also declined by Reitz, who said he would row no place but on the upper course here. Cochran finally agreed, on this own responsibility, to make the race for $300 a side, and take $35 for expenses, provided Reitz would row on the lower course, but this the latter again refused. Another meeting was then arranged for Sourday evening, and the parties separated. Hooper will probably be here himself on Saturday, and it is believed a race will be made. The two boys are very evenly matched, and are both regarded as coming men in aquatic circles, so that the race will be regarded with a good deal of interest if they come together finally.

to make the visit of the delegates to their city pleasant and memorable.

The lodge will be in session four or five days, and will be composed of Odd Fellows from each subordinate lodge in the State. Its convening at Charleston is looked upon there as an event of considerable importance, insanucla as it will bring there several hundred strangers. The Kanawia Lodge proposes to welcome these strangers with that hospitality which the good people of Charleston knows owell how to exercise, and to make their visit one long to be remembered, and their manner of entertainment such as will reflect credit upon the city and its inhabitants. It is customary in the various towns and cities in this State to assist the home lodge in entertaining the Grant Lodge, when it meets in them, and the citizens of Charleston are not willing that other and smaller cities shall be credited with a more liberal spirit in this matter than themselves, but will-do all in their power to receive and entertain the nis matter man themserves, but will-do al in their power to receive and entertain the fraud Lodge in such style as becomes a pros-serous city so soon to be the seat of State

Possibly a Natural Wonder Near He

The article in this paper about a week ago about the discovery of a cave near Harper's Ferry by a party of which a Wheeling gentleman was a member, has been read with considerable interest by all our readers. The following letter called out by it was received last night: FLUSHING, O., August 10, 1882.

Editors Intelligencer.

Since reading the article published in the INTELLIGENCER of the 5th. In regard to the discovery of a cave at Harper's Ferry, the people of this community have awakened to the fact that there is within a short distance from town, an opening in the ground which may possibly lead to the discovery of a cave that will rival in grandeur and magnificence the one recently discovered at Harper's Ferry.

This opening is located in a dense lorger upon the top of one of the highest hills in this part of the country. Years ago a party of explorers lowered one of their number to a depth of seventy-live feet, without, however, weektaining anything beyond the fat that it led still deeper than their longest line would fathom.

The oil well has reached a depth of 165 feet, the boring having been somewhat slow on account of the numeron strata of tough and which have been encountered. The six foot vein of coal was struck about 115 feet about the surface. A four foot vein of fine clay was passed through before reaching the coal. The strong flow of gas which was struck at a depth of about 40 feet still continues, with unabated flow. A lighted paper thrown down the well just after the gas was met caused a loud report, the fames extending several yards beyond the mouth of the well, knocking the operator's hat off, and scorching his face. An expert employed at the well declares the gas to be genuine oil gas, he being able to determine by the color and the steady flow. The flow of furface gas in the immediate vicinity of the well has entirely disappeared since the tools tapped the yein below.

Lugust Returns to the Department

WASHINGTON, D. C., August 10.-The August crop returns to the Department o Agriculture, (the work of about 6,000 cor respondents), give estimates covering the entire producing area of over 1,500 principal agricultural counties in the United States upon the condition of most of th crops now growing.

The condition of cotton has improved the past month. The general average has advanced from 92 to 91. This is higher by advanced from 92 to 91. This is higher by three points than in August, 1879, and lower by eight than the August average of 1880; also two points lower than at this date in 1875 and one point lower than in 1878, but higher than in the five other years since 1872. The average condition in each State is as follows: Virginia 84, North Carolina 84, South Carolina 85, Georgia 94, Florida 87, Alabama 90, Mississippi 91, Louisiana 93, Texas 190, Arkansas 96, Tennessee 86, Only North Carolina, Florida and Louisiana show a decline; Virginia gained 4, Georgia 2, Alabama 6, Mississippi 4, Texas 3, Arkansas 6, and Tennessee 8. South Carolina has the same average as July.

South Carolina has the same average as July.

There is no injury from drought except in a slight degree for some districts in Texas. In the northern and eastern division of that State there has been an excess of rain, causing a too vigorous growth of the stalk, delay in fruiting and some times sheading of the bolls. In the entire cotton belt there is reported an excess of moisture, injurious in proportion to the retentiveness of the soils. This case accounts for the comparative low condition in North Carolina, where it is now deemed too late for entire recuperation.

Carolina, where it is now deemed too late for entire recuperation.

Rust begins to appear in districts where rains have been in excess, but without damage as yet. The caterpillar has made its appearance in all the States of the Gulf coast, and though no injury has resulted many apprehensions of future loss are expressed. The bolt worm is also mentioned in several States. A large number of returns are higher and more favorable, prophesying a crop "as large as the land can produce, or better than for many years."

The wheat returns for August relate to the spring variety. Its condition is higher than for several years. It was 88 in 1880

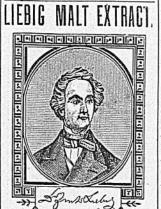

ast month. It is somewhat late but nearleady for harvest. At date of the return reduce the price of wheat in the hands of farmers.

A special agent at the Department of Agriculture, London, cablesto-day: Wheat in England promises an average crop of good quality, in France, a medium crop slightly damaged by rain in the blooming period. In Germany the recent heavy rains have deterioriated the quality of a fair abundance of the product. In Russia and Austria there will be an average crop, and in Hungary 15 per cent above the average. The European outlook is favorable for a medium product with some reduction in quality. The condition of the crop is represented by 83 as against 77 last year at this date. In 1881 the effect of the drought was seen by a reduction of 13 points in general condition of the collected by 85 as a collection of 13 points in general conditions. y a reduction of 13 points in general condi-ion during July, followed by a great leterioration in August. At the pres deterioration in August. At the present time circumstances are favorable for further improvement in most of the districts. The averages of the Southern States are nearly above 100. The surplus of the producing States average as follows: Ohio 77. Michigan SS, Indiana SS, Illinois 59, Iowa 70, Missouri 91, Kansas 106, Nebruska 98. New England ranges from *88, in Massachusetts to 96 in Connecticat, and New York 85, Pennsylvania 90, New Jersey 93. The general average condition of the other crops is as follows: Oats 102, spring rye 100, barley 97, buckwheat 97, potatoes 101, and tobacco 87.
